HISTORY OF NEW BUFFALO

In 1834, one of the first permanent settlers to the area, Captain Wessell Whittaker, ran his schooner Post Boy aground near what is now the village of Grand Beach. The captain and crew found shelter a bit south of there at the present-day Michigan City, Indiana. While traveling north to St. Joseph to report the ship's loss to its underwriters, Whittaker was so struck by the beauty of the area and the natural harbor that he filed claim to a large tract of land around the mouth of the Galien River. Whittaker named it after his hometown of Buffalo, New York.

After laying out plans for the city and gaining partners to develop the area, the value of land rapidly increased in a period of land speculation. This lasted until the Panic of 1837, which brought an abrupt end to most speculative land development in the area for several years. Followed soon after by a severe winter in 1841, the area struggled economically. The western terminus of the Michigan Central Railroad in New Buffalo was completed in 1849. The harbor was improved and the economy flourished briefly until the railroad connection to Chicago was completed in 1853, after which the use of the harbor for shipping declined.

Although the railroad continued to contribute to the local economy, it was not until the 1900's and the age of the automobile that New Buffalo re-established its link to tourism. The area began to be recognized for its vacation and resort potential, resulting in summer cottages, camps and hotels. 1921 saw the opening of the Golfmore Hotel in Grand Beach, rated as one of the finest resorts on the Great Lakes.

In 1934 the State of Michigan recognized New Buffalo as "The Gateway to Michigan" and built a tourist information center here, at a time when US 12 was the main southwest Michigan artery, intersecting with the final cross-state destination for the historical Red Arrow Highway. With the advent of the Interstate system, I-94 has now paralleled the Red Arrow route. The current Michigan Welcome Center on I-94 at New Buffalo is the busiest in Michigan.

The Oselka family began dredging the harbor and the channel leading to it in the 1960's. By 1975, New Buffalo's safe harbor became a reality and the new Whittaker Street Bridge was dedicated making the New Buffalo Harbor one of the largest harbors in the area.

Between August 5, 1984, and October 26, 2009, Amtrak's Pere Marquette (Chicago—Grand Rapids) stopped in New Buffalo at a station along the old C&O alignment. This station was located approximately seven blocks south of the current station that opened in 2009 at 225 North Whittaker Street. This has allowed people from all over Michigan and Illinois to travel to New Buffalo in a short time to visit the area and even live and commute to work in other locations.

50th Anniversary Celebration

NEW BUFFALO

HARVEST & WINE

FESTIVAL

October 10, 2015

Just about the time when the leaves begin to turn and the soft fragrance of ripe grapes fills the air, the New Buffalo Harvest & Wine Fest celebrates the end of Summer, the beginning of Fall, and the abundance of Michigan's Harbor Country.

The official "anchor event" of autumn in Harbor Country is the New Buffalo Harvest and Wine Fest, which takes place annually on the Saturday of Columbus Day in October, from noon to 10pm

With the Lake in full view from Lion's Park (and the beach just across the street), you can fully appreciate New Buffalo's natural beauty as you sample its bounty of local cuisine, locally grown produce and most importantly, locally cultivated wines.

In this one picturesque spot, you can enjoy a variety of wines from several local vintners. Past wineries have included: Round Barn Winery, Free Run Cellars, Domaine Berrien, Lemon Creek Winery, Baroda Founders Wine Cellar, Warner Winery and Tabor Hill Winery. No wonder many consider the New Buffalo Harvest & Wine Fest to be the ultimate out-door wine tasting event! Not a wine lover? We have something for you too. Local micro brews are available too!

In addition to the abundance of food and drink, there are free activities for the kids, like pumpkin painting, art projects, a bounce house and more! Plus, unique arts & crafts vendors and live music all day long. For a suggested donation of only $5 per person, it's the perfect way to spend a Saturday - in the crisp fall air...glass of wine in hand...lakeside.

A WINTER CELEBRATION

February 6, 2016

The Second Season Ball is the New Buffalo Business Association's premier fundraising event – and an opportunity to celebrate a year's worth of hard work promoting business, partnership, and community in New Buffalo. Always held on the first Saturday of February, the Second Season Ball is the pinnacle event of New Buffalo's "second season" – the period of time between Labor Day and Memorial Day. Attendees are asked to help celebrate the area's winter wonderland appeal and attractions by shedding their winter parkas, trading their snowshoes for dress shoes, and joining together for an elegant evening full of music, dancing, and fine dining.

The Second Season Ball is attended by guests from New Buffalo, Southwest Michigan, Northwest Indiana, Chicagoland, and beyond. In addition to good company, live music, a cocktail hour with appetizers, and a sit-down dinner, attendees also enjoy bidding on a treasure trove of items in live and silent auctions. More than 150 businesses each year donate goods and services to ensure its success. The result is not only a wide array of offerings (everything from handcrafted jewelry, vacations, original art work, golf carts, and private wine tastings and dinners) but also an outpouring of support for the NBBA's work. All proceeds from the event's ticket sales and auctions benefit the NBBA's community programming efforts – live musical performances, parades, festivals, and fireworks that take place throughout the year to encourage and support the ongoing economic growth and community development of the New Buffalo Area.

To find out how to join the festivities and celebrate New Buffalo's "second season" yourself, please visit www.newbuffalo.org
